Matilde is a partner in our litigation and arbitration team.

Matilde specialises in corporate and commercial litigation, international arbitration and ESG matters. She is the joint head of our Italian Dispute Resolution practice based in Milan and Padua.

Her litigation practice covers a broad range of disputes and Matilde is recognised for managing highly complicated cases with cross-jurisdictional profiles. As part of her corporate litigation practice, she is experienced in commercial and banking transactions and D&Os liabilities. Her work focuses on judicial proceedings and strategies and often involves the application of international conventions and European laws in relation to the choice of jurisdiction and the enforcement of foreign judgments. She also represents Italian companies in matters of civil litigation such as product liability, contract and credit recovery.

Matilde also has a core specialism advising individuals and businesses on ESG issues. She works with clients to advise on regulatory, compliance and environmental and human rights risks across a wide range of sectors including banking and finance, construction, manufacturing, clothing, food and beverage, health, infrastructure, technology and asset management.

Matilde regularly advises in international arbitration proceedings under a wide range of different arbitration rules as well as in ad hoc arbitrations, with a strong focus on sports arbitration. She advises companies and HNWI with regards to disputes around their personal and commercial interests.

Matilde has a particular focus on the sports sector and represents clubs, athletes, agents and institutions in matters involving major dispute resolution bodies, such as the Court of Arbitration for Sport, the Italian Federal National Tribunal, the Italian Federal Court of Appeal, and the CONI Sports Arbitration Panel.

Matilde is widely recognised in the Italian disputes market and she won Italian directory, Legal Community's, Lawyer of the Year (Under 40's) Arbitration award in 2020.
