Hannah is a senior associate in the private client and tax team.

She advises high net worth individuals, international families, trustees and financial institutions on a range of UK tax, trust, estate and succession issues, including contentious matters as part of the Tax Investigations group.

Specifically, she advises on pre-immigration remittance planning and establishing offshore structures with focus on family governance issues. Hannah also advises individuals with US and UK connections on both their estate and lifetime gift tax planning and advises non-UK domiciled clients on holding high value UK residential property.
