Hannah is an associate in the private client and tax team.

She advises high-net worth individuals on a wide range of wealth and succession planning, trust and tax matters whether they are either non-UK domiciled or non-UK resident, or both. This includes, for example, advising on the regularisation of undeclared offshore tax liabilities and the ongoing management and reorganisation of foreign holding structures which own UK residential properties.

As an Italian speaker, Hannah has experience of matters involving the interplay between common law and continental European elements of trust structures and estate planning, such as usufruct arrangements. She has experience advising on the UK tax implications and succession planning considerations which arise from such arrangements, as well as in preparing Italian holographic wills.
